The Tail Twister

The Lion's Club entertained the successful Hockey team and their Manager, Frank Ball, last week at supper. The boys seemed rather dead to the tail twister and his pal Fawns so they took it upon themselves to institute a little blood boiling process of their own. The meal hardly began when Jack Kenny tossed both hands up with a queer mingling of surprised and indignant explosions. Rayo Woolf and Vely Heggie followed with a few emphatic ejaculations not too effective in print. Frank Ball had hardly finished telling us what it meant to father a bunch of Indians for a hockey team when Jerry let a series of grunts and yells to illustrate what Frank had in mind. Jack Evans went wildly out over the tops of the benches and then the gang went to work investigating the premises. They found a system of wires connected to the seats and to the table from an induction coil under Grant Fawn's chair. We guess he had nothing to do with it but we warn his wife not to be surprised if he is brought home some night full of something or other. The boys came alive, so maybe the end was justified. The Hockey boys said they had a good evening but Jerry's adjectives are still red-hot—his trousers were scorched, too.

Home And School Organization Underway

Some time ago we wrote an article on the need of a Home and School Association in Raymond and asked that some enterprising citizen come forth and offer to take up the banner. One has.

Mrs. Mary Hyde has written away for information regarding the organization of the Home and School and has made arrangements for an organization meeting to be held April 27 at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall.

The need of such an organization is only too apparent and from the information received by Mrs. Hyde we wish to quote:

WHY HAVE A "HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION?"

Five Alarms In Four Days

The Raymond Fire Department has answered five alarms the last four days. Four of the fires were threatening grass fires and one was to Stirling where the home of C. W. Richardson on the Lon Nelson farm east of Stirling was completely destroyed.

The Raymond brigade responded promptly but the fire was too far advanced to save the building.

At this time of year it is very dangerous with so much rubbish being burned and the high winds that have prevailed the last few days. Utmost caution should be exercised in clearing and burning around houses and buildings.

Idlers Are Alberta Champs

Overcoming a seven point handicap the Raymond Idlers took the second game of a two-game total point series with the Edmonton Trollers, by a score of 40-53 to become the Alberta Intermediate Basketball Champions. The first game on Monday night went to the Trollers by a 59-57 score. The Edmonton boys were good but not good enough to top the Idlers. Both games were poorly attended.

Winning of the championship gave Raymond two provincial titles, the High School Comets having copied the "A" championship this year.

1. Because it strengthens home and school life.
2. Because it educates for a progressive neighborhood.
3. Because it adds to the teacher's influence and to the parents' interest.
4. Because it is team play between two of the most powerful social forces in the world.
5. Because it makes the community at large more intelligent about the problems of education.
6. Because it creates the public opinion necessary for educational progress.
7. Because it arouses the community to a sense of its responsibility to its most precious asset—the children.
8. Because it supports Trustees who desire to provide the best possible education facilities.
9. Because it helps teachers to keep in the wider relationships of the out of ruts and to see their work community as well as those of the classroom.
10. Because it enables parents who misunderstand the purpose and methods of the school to get correct views, and to extend sympathy instead of antagonism.
11. Because it brings the men and women of a community in touch with one another, which tends to break down prejudices and misunderstanding, and to establish a common interest in the education and welfare of the home, the school and the community.
12. Because it creates better home equipment, wider use of the school plant and greater returns for the life, and brings about better school money invested in education.

The amount of money spent by private industry in Canada on increased material costs, new machinery and new plants last year was about $2,156,000,000—almost as much as the federal government's estimate for its entire budget for 1948-49.

Disbursements under the Family Allowance Act are in excess of $260,000,000 annually, which in 1947 represented about 39 cents out of the dollar of personal income tax paid by Canadians.

OUR JAPANESE CITIZENS

At the end of this month Japanese who were hastily evacuated from Canada's Pacific Coastline early in 1942 will be freed from the prohibition which has forbidden them to return to coastal areas, but there is not likely to be any mass movement of the Japanese westward.

Certainly there will be no general exodus of Japanese from Southern Alberta, and the indications are that only a few of the 3,500 Japanese in this region will be trekking back to British Columbia. During the seven years they have been here, most of the Japanese evacuees have found Southern Alberta too much to their liking to want to leave.

They have found more tolerance here than along the Pacific coast, they have discovered that they could live at least as well from the fruits of their work in this area and they have seen a brighter future for themselves in Southern Alberta than they could ever expect of the west coast. And able able to take advantage of opportunities to permanently reestablish themselves here many have decided to stay.

Through their industry and thrift many of the evacuee families have managed to accumulate savings with which to buy farms or small businesses and the number of those going out on their own in Southern Alberta is steadily increasing. Some are using the skills acquired in British Columbia in such ventures as specialized growing of vegetable seeds.

There is another feature of major importance on the conduct of evacuee families in Southern Alberta this being that they have apparently learned that tight little racial communities such as they lived along the

ABOUT "BOYNS BRITISH"

Anyone with the most elementary idea of economics knows that international trade is a two-way process. A nation cannot expect to sell without buying. It must buy from its customers in order that payment may be obtained for its exports.

Canada has been selling far more goods and commodities to Great Britain than she has been buying from the Mother Country. The favorable trade balance has been running at the rate of several hundred millions of dollars a year. If our rate of export to Britain is to be maintained we must buy more British goods.

The question arises, why don't we buy more from Britain? Some seem to think that there is underhand work going on to prevent such action. Others blame the government. The truth is that the fault lies with the Canadian people collectively.

Canadian people are unquestionably in favor of more extensive purchases from Britain. They will gather at public meetings and pass resolutions to that effect. But individually they do not follow such a line of action.

When a person goes to buy a shirt or a pair of shoes, a dress, some dishes, furniture etc., he or she looks to the best possible bargain. They do not look to see where the goods were made. They want the most for their money. This is particularly true of women, who do most of the purchasing of personal and household requirements.

Canadian are North Americans and follow fashions and usages common to this continent. The British do not cater particularly to our peculiarities. We buy the things we are used to. But if our imports from Britain do not increase, we may have to change our minds and our fashions. Otherwise we may lose a very valuable market and may not have so much money to buy anything.

OIL-RICH FARMER GETS RID OF WEALTH

—Central Press Canadian
Made wealthy at 78 by oil found on his Leduc, Alta., farm, Gottleb Wedman, right, is not worried about debts these days—his chief problem is getting rid of his money. Father of 25 children, he gave a gift of $1,000 to $3,000 to a son or daughter when they married. Seventeen of the children are married. Shown here with his son, Jimmy, a member of a crew drilling for oil, Mr. Wedman has split his royalties into 25 equal parts. His wife continues with her farm chores as before.

BONGO, BONGO, BONGO.
I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE THE CONGO.

When people talk about progress civilization and mankind marching to a bigger, better and presumably atomic world and so on and on we always think of the story of the cannibal chief who was entertaining at dinner. The visiting hunter was horrified to find that the main course was "man". Meanwhile the chief went on to tell about his experiences at a European college.

"Do you mean to say," asked the hunter in a shrill voice, "that you actually went to college and yet continue to eat human flesh?"

"Oh yes," said the cannibal graciously and wiped some gravy from his mouth with a damask serviette, "but of course, I always use a knife and fork now."

HISTORY of RAYMOND

by Elizabeth King

JAMES KIRKHAM

It would indeed be hard to find a busier, more colorful and abundant life than that of James Kirkham. In reading about his active life one is wont to say "Was there any thing that very gifted man couldn't do?"

James Kirkham came to Raymond in June 1902, and was, from the very beginning of his life here, a leader in all that pertained to the town. He was Raymond's first regular Postmaster (Chas McCarty handled the mail from a large box in his store in 1901). Mr. Kirkham was Commissioner, Recorder of Births and Deaths Registrar and Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Post master, 1st Vice President of Raymond's Board of Trade and a member of the Town Council, assisting in the building of the Raymond Agricultural Hall, sidewalks and many other improvements.

He was also active in many church capacities and on August 23rd, 1901 Apostle Francis M. Lyman ordained him as Patriarch of the Taylor Stake. That same year he was sustained Choirister of the Raymond Ward Sunday School. (The writer of this sketch had the pleasure of being organist under him) James Kirkham loved music and developed a talent for playing almost every instrument. While touring 1000 miles across the plains with ox-team often in the evening after a weary day's march, he would play the concertina while Ebenezer Beesley, famous as a musician in Utah's early history would play the violin. He used to tell of encountering wolves at night on his way home to Sugarhouse after playing in the Salt Lake Theatre orchestra.

With three brothers he formed an orchestra which for 27 years played in every small and large town from Logan to St. George. Upon Mr. Kirkham's death in the Salt Lake papers it was announced in large headlines "States First Musician Dies". It is said he organized the first minstrel show in Utah. It is interesting to note that when Maud Adams made her first appearance as an actress Mr. Kirkham was playing in the old Salt Lake Theatre orchestra. He was always proud to relate this incident although at this time Maud Adams was but a babe in arms. Her mother was in the cast which was playing at that time. Later, he married a relative of Maud Adams' mother.

Mr. Kirkham worked in the 1st sugar mill and the 1st papermill in Salt Lake City. He helped to build the 1st canal across the Provo Bench and the first also from Big Cottonwood Creek. He taught school, played in vaudeville and lectured on his trips to Europe.

In an old local paper, "The Raymond Rustler", edited by David H. Elton and dated October 8, 1907, we read the following:

"Prominent Citizens Honored. Mr. and Mrs. James Kirkham Feted in Leaving Raymond For Utah

"Four years ago last June, Patriarch Kirkham came to sunny Alberta and located in Raymond. Last Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Kirkham left Raymond to make their permanent home in Lehi, Utah. To use the Patriarch's own words, in speaking to the Raymond Rustler "The children have fitted me up with a neat and comfortable home and they write 'Now, Pa, you must come' and I felt that I must go."

James Kirkham was born in London England on the 28th day of August, 1849. He emigrated to Utah in 1859. He served in the Nauvoo Legion until disbanded, going through the Black Hawk Indian War and doing military services for many years. He also did wonderful execution in the Grasshopper war.

"Mr. Kirkham helped to build the Union Pacific Railway across the plains doing all kinds of manual labor, teaming, grading and blasting. He holds the distinction of riding on the first engine that passed over the S.P.R.R. in Utah. Literally he is an 'all-round' man, farmer, gardener and hotel proprietor. He seems to have taken a post graduate course in the hotel business, starting in as a dishwasher and gradually stepping up to meat cook, pastry cook steward, waiter and office clerk and then taking charge of a restaurant.

For 22 years he worked under T. K. Cutler, manager of the Utah and Idaho Sugar Factories. Patriarch Kirkham is no exception to the hardships incident to Pioneer Life in Utah.

He knows how it is to go to work by day and by night with a little beef and carrot molasses, bread and greens, $20. in gold was the price paid for 100 pounds of flour.

When the James Kirkham and Sons Mercantile Co. was established in Lehi, Utah, he stood at the head. The initial capital was $1.35. When the business was dissolved they were employing 10 clerks, 1 double horse delivery, 16 girls and a lady foreman in the Dressmaking Department.

Mr. Kirkham has held every office in the gift of the Church from Deacon to High Priest. He was one of the first teachers in the Lehi Sunday School and filled that position for 30 years. He was also leader of the ward and Sunday School choir.

In music and in the Drama he was a member of the Quadrille Band, Brass Band and Orchestra and was manager of three Dramatic clubs, a Minstrel Troupe and a Variety Show. He has been correspondent for five newspapers and filled one foreign mission and two home missions."

From the foregoing it will be seen that Mr. Kirkham has truly lived in deeds as well as years. He and his beloved wife were highly esteemed by all the Raymond people and while their parting leaves rather a regrettable void, there is satisfaction and joy in knowing they have gone where warm friends dwell and loving hearts wait to receive."

James Kirkham was the father of 16 children. Some of them died in Utah and eight came to Canada.

Francis M. Kirkham was the first to come to this land. When Chas McCarty built his store the Raymond Mercantile Co., he offered Francis the managership which was accepted and in the fall of 1901 came to take over his new job as manager. Upon the resignation of E. B. Hicks as President of the Raymond Ward Y.M.C.A. on account of his many bishopric duties Francis Kirkham was chosen to fill that vacancy. He chose as his counsellors George H. Budd and J. H. McKnight. He was succeeded that same year 1902 by David A. Wilcox with Geo. Budd and Andrew Walton as counsellors. Francis Kirkham was taken out of the ward to become the Taylor Stake's first Y.M.C.A. president. He held this position until 1904 when he sold his share of stock in the Raymond Mercantile, resigned his position as manager of same and left for Ann Arbor to study. Mark H. Brimhall succeeded Francis as the second Taylor Stake Y.M. president.

Albert W. (Bert) Kirkham came to Canada in the Spring of 1902. His brother Francis kept writing encouraging letters of the splendid opportunities there were in the new land and town of Raymond until "Bert" pulled up stakes in Utah, bought a freight train and came to Raymond. Mrs. Kirkham came later, arriving with her two children Melba and Verland on Dominion Day, 1902. "Bert" was sales manager, buyer and clerk for the Raymond Mercantile for 32 years when on account of poor health he had to discontinue that job but he did not give up. He learned to knit and his even beautiful knitting would put most women's knitting to shame. He has made dozens of pairs of socks for the Red Cross, many sweaters for his children and grand children besides gloves, mitts, scarves and shawls. One white shawl he has done so beautifully it would make any woman turn green with envy.

In 1902 some of the energetic young men in Raymond organized what they called the "---ET CLUB". Following are the names of the "---ET CLUB" committee:

Bert Kirkham Secretary, J. E. Allen Floor manager, George Hicks, H. E. Kelly, L. D. King, A. F. McDowell, A. L. Wood, A. E. Moore, B. F. Keeler, R. O. Matheson

Bert is the only one of the James Kirkham family to remain in Canada. Francis, Myrtle, Arthur, Winifred, Wanda, Richard and Ruth, all left for Utah. On Bert's family Melba and Joe remain here while Verland lives in Blairmore and Gray lives in Edmonton where he works for Canada Packers, the largest meat packers in Canada. Dr. Reed Kirkham, Dentist resides in Ogden Utah, Vivian, an adopted child lives near Salt Lake

Rachael Kirkham, wife and mother passed away in July of 1948. Mrs. Kirkham wife and mother passed away in July 1948. Mrs. Kirkham was among Raymond's most active pioneers. She was a faithful worker in both the Red Cross and Women's Institute for many years. She served as President of the Relief Society for over nine years. She also held teaching positions in the Sunday School Primary and Mutual Improvement Associations in her church.

"Bert" and Mrs. Kirkham were members of the first "Old Folks" committee back in 1903.

An old timer relates the following story of the birth of "Old Folks" day in Raymond. A. B. Seaville called on Arthur Dahl and related how, in his old home town in Payson, once every year, all those over 70 years of age were invited to spend a day in feasting and dancing and suggested it would be a fine thing to do in Raymond. From that suggestion grew a yearly get-together of the older folks which has been carried out from that day to the present time.

On that first honored guest day at a single table in the little one there were but twelve couples seated in the church which "Uncle" Jesse Knight built.

Fight Grasshoppers

There is every indication that 1949 might well be one of the worst grasshopper years in Western Canada's history. Millions of acres of good crop land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are expected to be invaded by billions of grasshoppers in 1949. Prepare now to wage an all-out war on these winged pests.

Join the Forces. What is needed to avert disastrous crop losses from grasshoppers in 1949? Before all else, farmers in and adjacent to areas infested with grasshoppers should join forces with their local municipal and provincial authorities in the fight against grasshoppers. If this year's grasshopper control campaign is to be successful it must receive the full support of 100 per cent of the farmers in each infested area.

Control Measures. The first line of defence in controlling grasshoppers is the use of proper cropping practices. A few essential points for 1949 are: (1) Seed early. (2) Summerfallow infested stubble fields. In fact, this is the year to avoid, if at all possible, seeding heavily infested stubble land. (3) Use guard and trap strips on all summerfallow and keep them covered with poisoned bait or Chlordane.

The second line of defence is the timely, proper and adequate use of poisoned baits, sprays and dusts. This year, the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are generally recommending the use of the new grasshopper-killing chemical "Chlordane" (Chlordane). This chemical will lend itself well to large-scale grasshopper control operations, especially where plant growth is tall and succulent. Poison baits, on the other hand, are recommended where plant growth is short and sparse. Every effort must be made to keep young grasshoppers confined to pastures, field margins, roadsides, etc., and from spreading through grain crops.

Seek Advice. For detailed information on grasshopper control methods, and concerning the availability of chemicals, consult your local Agricultural Representative or District Grasshopper Control Supervisor, or write to your Provincial Department of Agriculture. Don't take a chance. Order your chemical supplies and grasshopper-fighting equipment at once.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS ... GALLERY, EDMONTON

The very first session of the eleventh legislature of Alberta came to a conclusion on Tuesday, but its work did not reach many satisfactory conclusions. There was a listlessness and lack of the usual fire in the debates and only on a very few occasions did anything awaken the gathering to temporary life. Even the galleries felt the unusual calm; nine-tenths of the spectators who honored the assembly by their presence were high school students brought there to see how the wheels of legislation go round. They must have gone away with an inadequate opinion of the importance and the dignity of the parliamentary system as demonstrated in Alberta.

Old stagers in the house were all agreed the session was the dull, drowsiest drabdest one on record. The fact of the matter is that the steamroller tactics of the government in putting through its legislation without help from the opposition or suggestion from the public opinion is beginning to pull on everybody, including the Social Credit members themselves. No government is so inflexible that it can afford to defy or ignore public opinion, and the Social Credit government in Alberta is doing just that.

Take its treatment of the margarine question. When the session had been a short time on its way, the minister of Agriculture introduced a bill that was adequate and sensible enough to protect the interests of both the dairymen and the consuming public. It provided that margarine should only be sold when packaged in such a way as to make it plain that it was margarine and not butter. What more could the dairymen desire? The only other thing would be that margarine should be made so unattractive in appearance that the consumer would not want to buy it. In other words margarine should be put on an unequal handicap in its competition with butter. Mr. Ure, the minister of Agriculture, however let himself be over-influenced by the pressure group of the dairymen and "amended" the bill so that margarine can now be sold when colored yellow. Butter is always colored—why discriminate?

The dairymen claim they need the market for their butter and doubtless most consumers would like to buy butter, but when the price is so high that poor people cannot afford it, why should the government place an equally good substitute under a handicap? There is nothing dishonest about coloring margarine, any more than there is in coloring butter. Liberal Leader, J. Harper Prowse, tried to bring some semblance of sanity into the amended margarine control bill, but his amendment designed to safeguard a large share of the butter market for the dairymen, had no chance with the government. It came from the wrong side of the house—that was what killed it. Mr. Prowse moved an amendment to the amendment that "no margarine be allowed to be sold in restaurants or hotel dining rooms". That would have practically protected a very large market for butter. But the minister of Agriculture and his colleagues rejected the help of anybody in solving the problem. Now margarine under a discriminatory act can only be sold in its "natural color" which normally is ivory. It would be surprising if the manufacturers are able to find some other ingredient for making margarine, the "natural color" of which will be yellow. What will Hon. David Ure do then with his foolish discriminatory legislation? Amend it, of course. There haven't been many pieces of legislation introduced by the Social Credit Government in 13 years that haven't had to be amended.

More than half of the time of the legislature each year is taken up with discussing amendments to bills passed in previous years, and not necessarily by previous governments.

The government of Alberta seems to be misled by its assurance of continued success and its concept of its own infallibility that it is ignoring public opinion and coming dangerously close to ignoring public interest in some directions. It has suffered from several blunders recently whether it realizes it or not. Its attitude toward the I.O.D.F. child welfare investigation did it no good. Its ignoring of the wish of a majority of the farmers in its grain marketing bill's provisions in this session has not helped it any; and its lack of consideration for the consumers in the margarine question has given it a bad crack. But those whom the gods desire to destroy they first make mad."

SO LONG AS
So long as day shall follow night—so long
As there are stars and wind and even song,
And old sweet Mothers rocking by the fire,
And still sweet April nights and young desire,
So long as these are here serene... complete...
So will the core of life be sound and sweet.
So long as children love to play and run,
And little kindly deeds are thought... and done,
So long as tired feet come home at night,

And there is fresh cooked food and sunlight,
And gentle hands and shoulders wide and strong,
There will be strength to bear the world along.
So long as rainbows flaunt their colors seven,
Above the darkness of a storm-swept heaven,
So long as seeds, dark 'prisoned in the land,
Shall burst their tiny cells and grow...and stand
A shining miracle above the sod.
So long as these are here...there will be God.

—Edna Jaques.

Are you expecting A CHEQUE

FROM THE WHEAT BOARD this month?

If you are, part of the money is bound to come in very handy at this time of year.

These extra dollars also provide you with a made-to-order chance to set aside a reserve for emergencies or opportunities.

But money right at hand has a bad habit of dwindling away. Without realizing it, you suddenly find you've spent it all—often on non-essentials.

There's an easy way to avoid wasting those precious extra dollars... As soon as you receive your cheque, deposit it in an account at your nearest branch of the B of M.

It's then a simple matter to draw out the money you need for necessary spring expenditures. But you're not so apt to spend the remainder on non-essentials. And you'll be holding on to that reserve—a reserve you can call on if something unexpected crops up.

So why not drop in at the B of M as soon as you get your Wheat Board cheque? If you haven't an account at the B of M, we will be glad to open one for you.

Canada's North Ready For Trapping Beavers

It's open season for beaver trapping in the James Bay area and Indians in the north have high hopes of getting their share. The beaver provides both treaty and non-treaty Indians with an annual income ranging from $700 to $2,000 on government and Hudson's Bay Co. preserves in the James Bay area. To the native who depends solely on trapping, the beaver is the backbone of his existence. The other animals he traps are merely side lines. The beaver population was almost wiped out in the early 1900's but now the population is increasing. Sam Cheena, above, is ready for trapping trip.

What's happening in Alberta is good for everyone
New oil discoveries
New markets
New employment

What's happening out in Alberta these days? Plenty! New oil is being sought and found. Money's flowing faster. There's lots of activity, lots of opportunity. And as a result all Canadians are better off.

For instance, oil from Alberta's new wells is expected to save 68 million U.S. dollars this year! That's one of the big reasons for Canada's better trade position, one of the reasons we are able to buy more U.S. goods.

The new discoveries have meant lower cost operation in Alberta and Saskatchewan for farmer and industrialist, and this must ultimately benefit all of Canada.

Then, too, it takes a lot of money to find oil and lots more to develop a field once it's found. Two million dollars a week is being poured into oil exploration and development in Alberta today. That spending creates new markets for the things the rest of Canada has to sell.

And finally let's recall that in the war years—and after—we were dependent on foreign oil for roughly 90 per cent of our supplies. This year prairie production should exceed prairie demand. With continued effort and reasonable success it is not too much to hope the men who search for oil will make Canada self-sufficient in petroleum in years to come.

Everywhere in Alberta you hear about new oil discoveries—all the more because they followed the long years when nature baffled the oil seekers. Years when men drilled holes two miles deep and found only water. Years of million-dollar disappointments.

In 1947 the tide turned. First it was the Leduc field... then the Woodbend field... next Redwater... now, still untested by time, other discoveries give new promise and the hope of still greater benefits for all Canadians.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

If you're interested in facts...

Consumption of oil in Canada is the second highest in the world on a per capita basis. United States alone is higher.

Canadians are using twice as much oil as in 1939 and more than three times as much as in 1932.

At the beginning of 1949 Canada was importing 84 per cent of her oil.

During 1948 Imperial Oil drilled a total of 138 wells in its search for oil and in developing the new fields of Alberta.

The oil industry is spending more than $100 million in exploration and development in Alberta this year.

Bringing you oil is a big job—and a costly one

FOR PARENTS ONLY

By Nancy Cleaver

Pictures for a child's room should be chosen with as much care as his books. They form part of his environment and no parent can measure the extent of their influence. Children love certain pictures even as they have favorite toys. As well as affording pleasure, pictures stimulate the child's imagination. When a child is alone, gazing at a picture, his little conversation to himself often reveals that he is miles away. He has passed through the doorway of the picture into the magic land of "Let's Pretend".

Parents often forget that their children are "little people" with a much lower eye level than grown ups. Pictures should be hung correctly for the comfort of those who look at them. Thus, the pictures in a child's room should be hung low. The permanent pictures should be suitably framed. The glass and temporary pictures may be mounted frame help to keep them clean. Put on a colored mat and put up for a time with thumb tacks.

Most Appeal

Try to discover what types of pictures appeal most to your child. Little youngsters enjoy pictures of babies, of other children at play, or animals, especially kittens, puppies and baby animals with their mother. Bright color, such as red attracts a child's attention. They prefer simple outlines without too much detail. Almost every child goes through a stage of liking a special kind of picture as circus pictures.

Whenever possible a child should be given the opportunity to exercise some choice in the pictures for their rooms. If a child has a "say" in their selection, he is bound to be more interested in them. Many firms use lovely colored prints on their calendars which children like and which are worth keeping. Magazines display some attractive colored prints too.

Canadians should be more aware of their own artists. A good colored print of a Canadian scene is a splendid way to interest boys and girls in the painting of their own countrymen. The National Gallery in Ottawa, the Art Gallery in Toronto and other galleries, keep a supply of colored prints of certain pictures, at moderate prices. Pictures such as Horatio Walker's "Maple Sugar Harvest", Paul Kane's "An Indian Encampment on Lake Huron", Cornelius Krieghoff's "The Habitant Farm" (Clarence Gagnon's

"March in the Birch Woods", Arthur Mowling's "A Canadian Trail", or Frank Panabaker's "Winter Woods" are part of our cultural heritage which Public School scholars are likely to find interesting. They may not want to have them permanently in their rooms but each one has its own charm. Small colored prints of these and many other paintings are shown in Albert H. Robson's "Canadian Landscape Painters". This may be found in most public libraries. Parents can encourage picture appreciation by looking through such a book with their boy or girl.

Questions

Children naturally ask questions about any object, including a picture which fascinates them. Here are some questions which might be asked about a print of any famous picture—

"Who painted it? Why did he choose this subject? What kind of a person was he? When did he live? Why do I like this picture?"

How much of its detail can I remember when I shut my eyes and try to recall them? Parents can train their children in keen and accurate observation by playing a "picture game" as indicated by the last question.

Pictures should not be left on any wall so long that no one sees them! They should be rearranged, especially after rooms have been newly papered! Occasionally put a picture away for a time and add a new one to the home's picture collection. Older boys and girls often are eager to put into effect some of their ideas about selecting pictures and the new picture's relation to the others on the walls. A love of pictures is one of the best gifts any parent can give a child. What do you do in your home to encourage it?

CANADIAN GARDEN SERVICE

SWEET PEAS

Sweet peas are almost a must with most flower gardens throughout Canada. Except in those few areas where hot summer nights come early, they should be little difficulty in making a good showing. The secret is an early start, and preferably in a prepared bed. These plants, as well as the vegetable variety, make their first growth when soil and air are fairly cool, therefore planting just as soon as the soil is fit to work is advisable.

It is best to dig a trench about a foot or so deep. In the bottom put a six-inch layer of well-rotted leaves and manure. On top of this should be a couple of inches of good rich loam. In this the seed is planted about two inches apart and half an inch deep. Gradually as the plants develop the trench fills in, thus encouraging a deep root growth. Recently very much improved varieties have been available in Canada, as well as new colors. When the plants are up three or four inches some support for climbing should be provided. This may be brush or strings, or a combination of the two. Wire is not advisable as it is liable to cut or burn the tender growth. If flowers are removed daily and no seed pods allowed to form, blooming will last far longer.

Lawns Need Early Attention

Grass seed is another thing that makes its best growth during the cool weather. The seed can be sown even before the last snow has disappeared. It is best to do this on a day when there is no wind and to make sure of even coverage it is advisable to broadcast from two directions. Some experts even advocate sowing last thing in the fall. The seed will be dormant throughout the winter and start growth first thing in the spring.

For new lawns the ground should be thoroughly prepared, cultivated and killed the weeds. Repairs are handled in somewhat the same fashion, with the bald spots raked thoroughly to open up the soil. A light raking one way will cover seed sufficiently.

Well nourished grass and high quality blended seed from a reliable seed house will usually crowd out most weeds. Grass, like any other plant will benefit from a good dressing of fertilizer. Commercial fertilizer, because it is free from weed seeds, is recommended. It should be sown in nitrogen, which is the chemical element which provides the green growth in plants.

A little early work with the sprayer and regular cutting with the lawn mower will help. Then there are the new 2, 4-D sprays. These must be applied carefully according to directions and after the weather turns warm. They are a little hard on clover but they certainly do an amazing job in destroying dandelion, dock, plantain and most other weeds. When there is a heavy infestation one should follow with fertilizer, watering and some reseed so that grass will take over where the weeds have been killed or removed.

Nursery Stock

Nursery stock is the term applied to shrubby vines, trees etc. The wood of top quality stock will be green, pliable and with some strong well-formed buds. The roots should be protected from the air and be moist or wet, and it is necessary that they be kept in that condition until they are planted in their new quarters and growing. If the ground is not fit to receive them when purchased the plants should be "heeled in", that is planted temporarily in a trench with soil packed about the roots.

HISTORY OF RAYMOND

week following the Relief Society 17th of March party. The old folks then were not 60 or 70 but 50 years young. Bishop Knight, his counselors, the president of the Relief Society and her counselors, the widows and widowers then as now were invited to attend these special occasions. It is interesting to note that Arthur Dahl, first chairman has been in attendance at every honored guest function from that day to this except last year when he was dissatisfied in transportation. Contrast the 12 couples then with the 177 at the recent honored guest day.

PROTECT FROM FLIES

With the approach of warm weather most Canadians can expect flies and other insects to make their usual summer invasion. Nearly everyone knows that flies spread disease, but not everyone takes the trouble to keep these pests out of the house. Spring is the time to check up on screen doors. Properly placed these appliances are among the best means of avoiding insects borne infections.

Offender: To celebrate your election your honor.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM WEEKLY LETTER

WHEN TO USE 2,4-D

When the weed infestation in a grain crop is severe enough to warrant the use of 2,4-D, the question of time of treatment must be considered. Even though a simple and straightforward answer is impossible, we may be able to clear up most of the points involved.

Two main factors must be considered, firstly the growth stage of the weeds, and secondly the growth stage of the crop. As a general statement, it may be said that the younger the annual weed the more readily it may be killed with a given dose of 2,4-D. From this it follows that for equal kills of any given weeds, the dosage must be increased as the weed growth advances in size and age. It must also be remembered that the dosages normally used for the selective killing of annual weeds in a growing crop will have no effect on weeds which begin growth after the 2,4-D has been applied.

The general recommendations for treatments made in crops of wheat, oats, barley and rye is to treat after the crop has been out of the ground for three weeks or five inches tall, but before the crop has reached the shot blade stage. The recommendation for flax has been to treat after the crop has been up for three weeks or is four inches tall, but before buds form. There was some evidence from the experimental work conducted in 1948 that the least damage to flax resulted from treatments given to younger flax stands, when the plants had only five or six leaves. However at the time flax is in this stage of growth, there likely would not be sufficient weed growth present to justify any treatment being given.

Considering these two factors of weed and crop growth, treatments should be made at such times as to kill the greatest number of weeds while causing the least amount of damage to the crops.

Not only must the time of treatment be considered, but also it is necessary to decide when not to treat the crop at all. A treatment given to a crop with a slight and scattered weed infestation will not be a paying proposition from the standpoint of crop yields alone. In the year of treating, weed control can be attained by cultural methods more cheaply than by 2,4-D treatment applied to the seeded crop.

Baked Bananas with Jelly
Coffee or Tea Milk (Children)

Baked Fish Fillets Louisiana
For this use 1 lb. fresh or frozen fish fillets of any kind. Wash and dust with salt and pepper. Next peel and fine-chop 1 large onion; add ¼ c. minced parsley, ¼ tsp. thyme and ½ tsp. powdered bayleaf. Oil a shallow casserole or baking dish suitable for table service. Spread half the chopped onion on this; put in the fillets, dot with 1 tbsp. butter or shortening and add the remaining onion mixture. Bake about 40 min. in a moderate oven, 350-375 F. Serve plain, or with heated canned tomato sauce, or for a very dressed up meal, use real Hollandaise.

Baked Bananas with Jelly
Allow 1 small green tipped banana for each person. Cut off the tips. Peel the bananas and halve lengthwise. Then cut each half in two, making 4 sections from one banana. Place in a buttered or margarine baking dish. Pour over ½ c. currant or other tart jelly combined with 3 tbsp. orange or tangerine juice and melted. Bake about 12 min. in a moderate oven, 375 F., or until the banana is soft. Taste occasionally with the jelly mixture.

Next Day's Dinner
Grape Fruit Hot Biscuits
Minute Steaks (or Hamburgers)
Yams with Orange Juice
Tossed Mixed Vegetable and Green Salad
Louisiana Baked Custard
Coffee
(All measurements are level)
(Recipes serve four)

Trick of the Chef
When stewing celery and tomato together, add a little powdered basil for a new flavor.

Minute Steaks
Order individual steaks cut a scant ½" thick. Slash the fat around the edge in several places so they will lie flat. Brush with French dressing seasoned with little garlic. Pre-heat the broiler; place the steaks on the rack and broil under intense heat, turning as soon as well-browned on one side. Allow 4 min. for rare steaks; 5 min. if to be well done. Top each with a ball or pat of lemon-juice flavored butter or margarine.

Louisiana Baked Custard
Measure ¾ c. granulated sugar into a small heavy sauce pan and slowly melt over a low heat. Lumps will form; but keep stirring until the sugar liquifies is pale brown in color. Turn at once into a q-t-sized mold, tipping the mold quickly from side to side to coat it thoroughly. Next seal 3 c. milk. Beat 4 eggs slightly and add the milk, ½ c. additional sugar, ¼ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. vanilla and ¼ tsp. cinnamon. Mix thoroughly. Pour into the mold. Set it in a pan, pour in boiling water to surround, and bake about 50 min. in a slow to moderate oven, 325-350 F., or until firm in the centre and a knife, when inserted gently, comes out clean. Remove from the water; cool and chill. To serve, place a deep dessert plate over the top of the mold; then quickly invert it. The custard will be surrounded with a caramel sauce. Sprinkle the top with chopped pecans.

Trick of the Chef
Pour ½ c. orange juice over the contents of 1 can yams arranged in a baking dish; heat 20 min. in a moderate oven.

A Farm Storage Tank Doesn't "Cost" IT PAYS!

A farm storage tank permits you to buy and store enough fuel at one time to be sure of having a supply on hand when you need it. No costly delays when tractors stand idle, waiting for fuel to be delivered.

It helps to keep fuel clean and avoid plugging of fuel lines and carburetors with grit, dust or water. The tank can be mounted with enough slant to cause any impurities to settle away from the outlet.

It saves time in re-fueling tractors and trucks, if the tank is mounted overhead. Gravity flow is quicker than pumping or pouring. It prevents the spillage of the pump-and-pail method... or the wastage of the "last gallon" that is often left in the bottom of each barrel.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

A farm storage tank pays in added safety, because it can be located well away from house, barn or sheds.

Tanks come in three sizes. The price is reasonable. See your Imperial Oil Agent.
